Degree Application Guide (Doctoral Program)

For the application of the doctoral dissertation review (including the final examination; hereinafter referred to as the “dissertation review”), follow the instructions below.

(1) Diploma policy

The degree is given to an individual who completes the purpose of the course which is defined in the Regulations of the Graduate School of the University of Tsukuba and is certified as possessing ability in the field of Informatics. The doctoral degree given by Doctoral Program in Informatics is the Doctor of Philosophy in Informatics.

(2) Doctoral dissertation requirements

The doctoral degree is an academic degree conferred on an individual who is qualified as an independent researcher. The Doctoral program in Informatics obligates students to submit a sole author doctoral dissertation, in English or Japanese, in which new knowledge obtained by appropriate research methods is clearly described. A doctoral dissertation must therefore be a compilation based on two or more peer-reviewed papers published in academic journals.

*Criteria for dissertation review

The dissertation must demonstrate the research skills necessary to conduct research activities as an independent researcher in the relevant research field.

(3) Prerequisites for applying for the dissertation review

- 1) Students need to complete an interim presentation prior to applying for a preliminary review.
- 2) Students should have enrolled in the doctoral program for three years (in case of Early completion, for one and half a year) or longer up to the point of degree conferment.
- 3) Students should have acquired ten or more credits during the doctoral program up to the point of degree conferment.
- 4) Must have passed the preliminary review
- 5) Remain enrolled in the doctoral program until the day of the degree conferment.

* Interim presentation
(Requirement)

- i. Must have enrolled in the in the graduate school for one year (in case of Early completion, for six months) or longer.
- ii. One or more core papers. (Details of core paper to follow.)
- iii. Must have completed “INFOSS Information Ethics”.

Students who enrolled must give a presentation on the progress of their doctoral dissertation. In principle, the interim presentation is held at the fourth Wednesday of May, July, November, or January. Students select the date that suits their progress of preparation and apply at least five weeks before the date. Students give a presentation that summarizes their research purpose, methods and status of progress followed by Q&A session (60 minutes total).

* Application of Early Completion

Students who have achieved outstanding research results may complete their studies early. Students who want to complete their studies early must notify their academic advisor as soon as possible after enrollment, and if approved, submit a "Notification of Early Completion" form to the Graduate Academic Affairs Section. The Graduate School of Comprehensive Human Sciences judges if the application for early completion is approved or not.

*It takes about two months from the start of the application process to the decision on whether or not the application is approved.

* If the thesis review is not passed or failed by the deadline, the student will be transferred to the regular completion process. The conferment for early completion is by December of the third year (for students enrolled in October, June of the third year).

(4) Application prerequisites for the preliminary review

Only students who fulfill all the following requirements are eligible to apply for the preliminary review.

- 1) Must have conducted an interim presentation before.
- 2) Doctoral dissertation for preliminary review must be a compilation based on two or more papers that have been published or accepted for publication in peer-reviewed academic journals. (Hereinafter referred to as the "core paper")

- * At least one core paper should be submitted and accepted while attending the doctoral program.
- * One of the core papers can be substituted for a peer-reviewed international conference paper or a peer-reviewed bulletin paper (except for the case of Early completion)
- * In case of Early completion, one of the core papers can be substituted for two peer-reviewed international conference papers.
- * Even if it is published in a peer-reviewed academic journal, the paper published in a sole organizational journal, such as IBM Journal, etc., is recognized as equivalent to a peer-reviewed bulletin paper.
- * Commentaries cannot be included in the core papers, even if they have been published in an academic journal.
- * Core papers must be written in Japanese or English.

(5) Preliminary review

The preliminary review is an occasion at which five instructors, including the main and secondary academic advisors, examine the Doctoral dissertation for preliminary review and decide whether it meets the requirements of a doctoral dissertation before the dissertation review. Applicants must modify their drafts based on the points discussed in the preliminary review. When such modifications are applied and considered to meet the required standard of a doctoral dissertation, the paper will be regarded as having passed the preliminary review. The preliminary review will be terminated if the applicant withdraws from the program. A successful candidate has to apply for the dissertation review as soon as the judgment is made.

- * Unless the dissertation review is applied within three months from the day that the Steering Committee approved the passing of the preliminary review, the candidates will have to undergo the preliminary review again.
- * In case that the Steering Committee once approved the passing of the preliminary review while the candidate was enrolled in the doctoral program and withdraws from the program after the approval, if the candidate applies for an dissertation review within three months from passing the preliminary review, it can be considered the preliminary review of a 'Doctoral Degree by Way of Doctoral Dissertation' with the approval of the Steering Committee.

Individuals who want to undergo a preliminary review must submit the following documents to the Chair of Doctoral Program in Informatics on the days prescheduled every month. (Individuals should not be on a leave of absence when submitting them.)

- * Submission: Graduate Academic Affairs Section,
Academic Service Office for the Library, Information and Media Sciences
Area

absence or in school.

- 2) The candidate applying for a preliminary review must make a presentation of the key points of the Doctoral dissertation for preliminary review.
- 3) The Doctoral Dissertation Preliminary Review Committee will examine the following points and describe their findings in a preliminary review report.

(8) How a dissertation review is conducted

A group of five examiners consisting of one or more experts from external organizations (e.g., faculty member at other graduate schools at the University, faculty member at graduate schools of other universities or research institutes) and the main and secondary academic advisors will examine whether the work meets the requirements of a doctoral dissertation. The dissertation review is an occasion at which pass or failure of the doctoral dissertation will be judged in the short term, provided that a preliminary review committee has duly examined the draft. Therefore no “modification required” or “conditional pass” will be allowed. If major revisions are necessary, the doctoral dissertation must be judged as a “fail.”

- 1) The Doctoral Dissertation Review Committee, formed for each dissertation, reviews the doctoral dissertation.
- 2) The final presentation must be made open to the public. It lasts for about 60 minutes, including Q&A session.
- 3) The final examination will be conducted after the final presentation. The examination consists of questions to the author about their doctoral dissertation and related fields, either orally or in writing. The examination is not open to the public and lasts 60 minutes or longer.

(9) Conferment of the degree

The degree is conferred on those who have passed the dissertation review. The official date of conferment is the last day of the next month the Steering Committee judges. (If the period of attendance at university expires in the month of judgement, please let Graduate Academic Affairs Section know in advance.) If other items, including period of attendance, acquired credits, etc., do not satisfy the conditions, conferment will be withheld.

One CD for Internet publication, which contains the doctoral dissertation for the permanent archives, must be submitted by the day of conferment. If no CD is submitted, the conferment will be withheld.

(10) Publication of the doctoral dissertation

Candidates who have received the doctoral degree must publish the full text of their doctoral dissertation on the Internet within one year of the day of conferment. If this is not possible, due to plans to publish the doctoral dissertation as a book, apply for a patent, etc., students should submit their Request for non-disclosure / disclosure on the Internet of my doctoral dissertation to the Steering Committee. The Steering Committee will make a decision on the Internet publication and will issue a Letter of Approval and an Answer on Postponement of Internet Publication (form 1) with the period if approved. The length of the period to postpone approved here is the end of March of one year after the day of conferment.

When the reason to be compelling is solved, students must submit an Application on resolving the reason of postponement of the Internet publication (form 2) immediately.

When the reason is not resolved during the period of postponement, students must submit an Application on extension of postponement of Internet publication (form 3) by the end of February of that year. If students do not submit the form, the full text of the doctoral dissertation will be published on the Internet on April 1 of that year.

When an Application on extension of postponement of Internet publication (form 3) is submitted, the Steering Committee will make a decision and issue form 1 if approved. However, the longest length of the postponement is until the end of March of three years after the day of conferment.

However, regardless of whether or not it is possible to publish the doctoral dissertation openly on the Internet, the CD for the permanent archives must be submitted by the date of degree conferment.

When the Steering Committee agrees to the reason of postponement, students will submit a summary in addition to the full text of the doctoral dissertation. A summary is published openly as a substitute. However, the University provides a full text of the doctoral dissertation if someone requests to read it.

If students permit to publish openly, he/she is able to submit postponement by the Request for non-disclosure / disclosure on the Internet of my doctoral dissertation. The propriety of the postponement is judged at the next Steering Committee. A doctoral dissertation already published cannot be withdrawn from Internet publication.

(11) Precautions

If any wrongdoing is uncovered, such as incorrect information having been submitted in the application, or the use of plagiarized data in the doctoral dissertation, the review process will be halted. If wrongdoing is discovered after conferment of the degree, any degree obtained in such manner will be rescinded. Any type of misconduct will be subject to severe disciplinary action.

3. Publication

Individuals who have been granted the doctoral degree must publish the full text of their doctoral dissertation on the Internet within one year of the date of degree conferment.

The processing section at the University will collect CDs for Internet publication. The University of Tsukuba Library will publish these materials via its institutional repository. The data published in such manner will be automatically archived in the Library of the National Diet.

Those doctoral dissertations postponed from publication on the Internet, whose authors have submitted a summary version for Internet publication instead, can be read in full text at the University of Tsukuba Library.

Doctoral dissertations postponed from publication on the Internet will also be published in full on the Internet if and when such reasons no longer apply.
